Re-Deployment of troops from International Border

*27. SHRI CO. POULOSE:
SHRI HARENDRA SINGH MALIK:

Will the Minister of DEFENCE be pleased to state:

(a) what were the objectives for the deployment of troops on the International Border;

(b) whether the deployment of troops achieved its objectives;

(c) if so, the details thereof; and ,

(d) whether Government's decision to redeploy the troops from International Border indicate the improvement in the situation which necessitated the deployment of the troops?

THE MINISTER OF DEFENCE (SHRI GEORGE FERNANDES): (a) to (d)The mobilization of the Armed Forces (Operation Prakasam) was done in December, 2001 to force Pakistan to abandon cross border terrorism, to provide military muscle to our diplomacy; and also to exercise the military option against Pakistan, if deemed necessary.

The mobilization of the Armed Forces has achieved the intended objectives with great distinction. It exerted immense military pressure on Pakistan and forced the Pakistan President to denounce support to 'jihad' through his speeches of 12th January and 27th May 2002. Some of the terrorist organizations in Pakistan were banned, some terrorists camps in Pak Occupied Kashmir were closed, their accounts frozen and leaders arrested. Moreover, the infiltration this year has come down to 53 per cent of the figures of corresponding period of the previous year. The election to the Jammu and Kashmir Legislative Assembly was successfully conducted in September and October 2002 despite terrorist violence and intimidation.

In addition, the mobilization focused the attention of the international community on Pakistan as a State sponsoring terrorism, thereby pressurizing Pakistan to shun cross border terrorism.

The experience gained during the mobilization has enabled the Army to reassess and revalidate its operational plans and procedures.
